SPOT™ Global Print: Print from Anywhere

SPOT Global Print seamlessly integrates with your CASSIE System and allows patrons to print from their computer or device from anywhere in the Internet to your library's printers. All of the functionality you need at your site is already built into CASSIE; you will not need to maintain a separate hardware platform, or even a separate software installation. You can offer SPOT Global Print services from a self-service print release station with or without coin/bill/credit card vending hardware, or from a staff-assisted print release station.

Patrons use the app on their device to select your library and the printer they would like to use. Then they select finishing options and issue print jobs using the native printing functions in the operating system; there is no need for conversion to PDF format, emailing private documents or uploading documents to a website. A PIN is automatically generated to ensure privacy when the patron is claiming their job, and the patron can generate a new PIN at any time. The app will keep track of jobs they have recently issued.

The system will automatically collect printing and accounting statistics, available for real-time query within the CASSIE staff interface. Patrons are not required to create an account if you use vending equipment or a staff-assisted print release station, but if they have a CASSIE account they can access their paid printing account balance within that account to pay for their print jobs.
